An argument was partially heard yesterday in the Supreme Court, General Term, on the appeal in the Shanks contempt case—the alleged con-tempt being his refusal to disclose to the Grand Jury of Kings county the author of an article published in the New York Tribune. It came up on an appeal from the decision of Judge Faucher, holding that the commitment was void through the law of limitation, as required by statute. Mr. Britton. late District Attorney of Kings county, argued for the appeal, and the Court gave the other side till the first Monday in May to present their printed

THE OCEAN BANK CASE.

Trial of Callender Continued-The Prosecution Rested and the Defence

The trial of Charles Callender, who is indicted for having accepted a bribe of $76,000 from the Ocean National Bank, of this city, to influence his action as bank examiner, was resumed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge

Mr. A. H. Purly, United States Assistant District Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. William Fullerton appeared as counsel for the de-

At the sitting of the Court, Mr. Columbus S. Stephenson, late President of the Ocean Bank, was recalled, and briefly interrogated by the District Attorney in relation to some former points of his testimony. TESTIMONY OF J. H. ASKIN.

Mr. J. H. Askin, President of the Fourth National Bank, of Philadelphia, deposed that he only knew by hearsny that the bank loaned Mr. Callender money; he borrowed $120,000 from the Vice President and Cashier of that bank with the assent of the witness; the securities were Portage Lake bonds and notes of Wild, Conant and Avery; the bank closed and this money was paid before the closing of the bank; witness took up the bonds and notes and put in their place $120,000 of good money; believed that the directors of the bank aid not know of this loan; witness took up the loan because he believed it had been made with his assent and without the knowledge of the directors; the securities were in the possession of his coun-set; he was still out of the possession of this sum of money.

To are Fullerton—There were about $50,000 of

To ar. Fullerton—There were about $60,000 of Portage Lake bonds, as well as I recollect; $40,000 of Hintons Southern Railroad bonds, $20,000 of Sullivan, Decatur and Matroon Railroad bonds, and a certificate for 100 shares of the Albany and Brunswick Railroad bonds; I could not tell the amount of the notes; I cannot tell the date of the loan; I think the bank railed on the 18th of December, 1871; the affairs of the bank have been wound up and the depositors all paid; I was a stockholder in the bank to the extent of nearly one-inail its capital; the capital was $200,000 or $225,000; I hope that my $120,000 is not lost; I heard some evidence yesterday that makes me very hopeful that I shall get my money; that was as to the Fortage Lake bonds; I heard that the canal was finished.

lost; I heard some evidence yesterday that makes me very hopeful that I shall get my money; that was as to the Portage Lake bonds; I heard that the canal was flushed.

To Mr. Purdy—I did not hear that the canal had been taken possession of by the Attorney General of the State of Michigan, or that Avery, Conant and Wild had no ear thay the to it.

THEODORE M. DAVIS REGALLED.

Theodore M. Davis, the receiver of the Ocean National Bank, was recalled and re-examined at considerable length by the District Attorney, the tendency of his evidence being that, with regard to the Portage Lake and Lake superior Ship Canal, Railroad and Iron Company, as described in the bonds, there was no such railroad, and as to the canal, described as twenty-foor miles long, with some four or five miles of a river at the end of the lake improved and deepened: he did not know the lands; the company did not own 600,000 acres of land; they had a title to 41,008 acres of land, of which the mortgage recited in the bond was the first debt; the deed was recorded the 13th December, 1872; the deed was not on record at the time the bond was given; he did not know what the value of the land was; heard talk about it, but of his own knowledge knows nothing of its value; the State of Michigan claims to own it; the toli upon the canal was regulated by law, but the rate was not yet fixed; heard that a few ships went through the condition of the bank, and Mr. Pullerton observing that he could not see what additional force ound be given to figures-by having them stated twice. The figures were repeated over and over again ad nature was improved and dredged out; the portage Canal proper, about two miles long; at one end of the lake forms a king of river, and this river was improved and dredged out; the Portage Lake Company did not own 600,000 acres of hand in 1871; these tands cover a great deal of territory, and I dare say I have been upon them; the company were bankrupt, and were analle to complete the canal; inderstood that they had not title to the land good.

To Mr. Fullerton the witness said that he had been offered thirty cents on the dollar for first mortgage Fortage Lake bonds by Mr. Davis, but he refused it because he believed that Mr. Davis was "on the make,"

William A. Wheelock, President of the Central National Bank, deposed that Mr. Callender's check for $5,000 on that bank in October, 1871, was not to Mr. Fullerion—The check was not presented;

To Mr. Fullerton—The check was not presented;
Mr. Callender had an account there.
Conrai M. Jordan, Cashier of the Third National Bank, deposed that Callender's check on that bank in October, 1871, for $6,500, would not be good.
To Mr. Fullerton—The check was not presented;
Mr. Callender had an account in the bank.
Columbus S. Stephenson was again recalled, and he gave evidence respecting the payment of $100 to Mr. Callender for making the examination of the Ocean Bank in October, 1871, in compilance with a request contained in a letter from the Comptroller of the Currency.
The prosecution here rested, reserving the right to call two witnesses that were expected to attend before the trial closed. One of these witnesses was coming from Callfornia.

Mr. Fullerton hoped that all the testimony for the prosecution could be put in before he commenced the deence.

Judge Benedict said that when the witnesses attended be would rule upon the admissibility of their evisence on hearing from the District Autorney what he intended to prove by them.

First and the defence. He said that the detendant was indicted for taking a bribe, and that the question the jury had to determine was whether he had violated the law in that respect, and whether he was exposed to any penalties provided for the offence. They had nothing to do with Mr. Callender's transactions with other banks except in so her as they tended to track in the development. Ist, he took a sum of $12,900 from the ones had that he followed her bank on the 27th of September, 1871, he took a sum of $12,900 from the bonk as a bribe; that on the 2d October, 1871, he took a nother bribe, and that you the 4th of October he took another sum, and, he repeated, that hey were to determine whether the act he had committed was done with the Ocean Hark. who was an obstacle to them to this purpose, out of the way.

Mr. W. L. Avery was the first witness called for the defence. He stated that he was connected with the Portage Lake Company, in connection with his brother, P. J. Avery, Aired Wild and J. E. Conant. He described the locality of the canal, and explained the object for which it was constructed; knows the length of the canal from the engineer's report; became connected with this canal project in the spring of 1870; Mr. Callender got his information regarding this project from Mr. Wild; the company owned 200,000 acres of land, granted by Congress in 1865, and also 200,000 acres of land purchased in the State of Michigan by P. J. Avery from Mr. Anthony, and conveyed by Mr. Avery to the canal company; Mr. Callender frequently spoke to me in 1871 in reference to the value of the canal and the extent of the work done upon the canal; witness thinks that Mr. Callender had a copy of the prospectus of the canal; the pamphiet was issued simultaneously with the mortgage to the Union Trust Company.

At this stage of the proceedings the Court adjourned until this morning.

SUPREME COURT-CHAMBERS. Suit of Ejectment Brought by the City.

Before Judge Donohue.
Parties who obtained from the Sinking Fund Commissioners grants of land under the Harlem River, on the south side, the extent of the grant extending about 180 feet from the bulkhead, are comised a lengthy litigation to test the validity of their title. A preliminary action is a suit of of their title. A preliminary action is a suit of ejectment brought by the Corporation Counsel against Henry Hart and William Remsen, who claim ownership of the land under the Harlem River between 130th and 181st streets under grant from the Sinking Fund Commissioners. Motion was made in this Court yesterday to dismiss the suit on the ground that the Corporation Counsel has no right to institute such proceedings without authority from the Common Council. It was contended on the other side that such authority was vested in the Corporation Counsel as the legal defender of the city's rights. Judge Donohue took the papers, reserving his decision.

Before Judge Larremore, Albert Glogowski, otherwise known as "Count" Glogowski, some time since brought suit against Benzigar Brothers for about $1,500, claimed due him for obtaining subscribers for the Wahrhete's Freund, published in Cincinnati. The case on motion was referred, to which the "Count," who appears as his own counsel, objected. He yesterday applied to Judge Larremore to vacate the order of reference, doing so in forma papperis. Accompanying the application was a lengthy affidavit of the "Count" setting forth the facts of the case and the injustice that he claims will be done him, to say nothing of the expenses which he is unable to pay, by its being sent before a referee, he insisting that he had a right to a trial by jury. Judge Larremore denied the motion, and the "Count" now insists that in our courts as at present administered there is, to quote his own language, "plenty of law, but no instice." He says further that, though having millonnaires to fleth against, he means to impate the humble example of the humble picbian, Mr. Brown, and "not give it up so."

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Trial of an Alleged Receiver of Stolen

Goods. Before Judge Sutherland.

The trial of Saul Adams, charged with purchasing a large quantity of kid gloves, which were stolen from Harris Brothers by a dishonest cierk, knowing them to have been stolen, was resumed in this Court and occupied the entire day. A number of witnesses were called to prove the good character of the accused. Saul Adams was examined in also who behalf, and admitted purchasing the gloves from Johnson, whom he learned sold gloves to Cohen and Samuels, Johnson stating that a friend of his imported them and smuggled them through the Custom House. He did not believe they were stolen or he would have had nothing to do with purchasing them. District Attorney Rollins submitted the defendant to a searching cross-examination, in the course of which he positively desired that he restamped the gloves purchased from Johnson, the latter having sworn that at Adams' request he ordered a stamp at a place in William street, with the words "Manufactured de Paris, première qualité," and that the prisoner and himself put that brand on the Victoria gloves stolen from Harris Brothers.

nothing but a check, but if he would come down to the captain of the boat he would get it from him. The baggage carrier retused and the gentieman appealed to Jones, who pulled out a $20 note and handed it over. The two men entered an adjacent office to get change, and instantly the spell under which poor Jones had been placed was broken. Jones tate acquaintances were, of course, considence men and sharpers. Detective Thompson, of the Grand Central depot, who had seen the whole transaction from the time the party had let the boat landing, arrested them immediately after they had left Jones standing on the sidewaik. They were arraigned at this Court yesterday, and the prospect before them is not very encouraging for some time to come, as they were committed without bail for trial.

BROOKLYN COURTS.

Judge Benedict being engaged in the Callender case in New York, the United States Circuit Court for this (the Eastern) district will to-day be adjourned until Monday next. The trial of Sanborn and others has been set down for that day.

The referee in the suit of Samuel Whitman against Catherine Whitman, having reported in favor of allowing plaintiff a limited divorce, on the ground that the defendant was intemperate and abused her children, Judge McCue, of the City Court, yesteriay refused to confirm the report. The Judge considered that the evidence did not warrant the granting of the divorce. In the Surrogate's Court yesterday, application was made to have the will of Anna B. Holmes admitted to probate. The following charitable bequests appear in the will:—To the Society for the Relief of Aged and Indigent Females, $0,000; Brooklyn Industrial School Association and Home Erocklyn Industrial School Association and Home for Destitute Children, $4,000; Brooklyn Children's And Society, $4,000; Five Points House of Industry, $6,000; Brooklyn Dispensary and Eye and Ear infirmary, $500; Brooklyn Central Dispensary, $500; Brooklyn Business Women's Innon, $1,000; Brooklyn Business Women's Innon, $1,000; Brooklyn Business Women's Linon, $1,000; Brooklyn Businessary, $0,000; Linon, $1,000; Brooklyn Businessary, $1,0
